Urodynamics and Bladder Problems

Do you have accidents when you sneeze, laugh or exercise?

Is your daily schedule interrupted by the need to run to the bathroom every 2-3 hours?

Do you wake up several times throughout the night and have accidents on the way to the bathroom?

If so, Urodynamics may be what you need!

Urodynamics is a simple, painless study of tests that allows for the evaluation of any problems your bladder may have.

Reasons for offering you this test may include the following common problems:

- You may be incontinent (leak urine)
- Your bladder may not empty completely
- You may have uncomfortable symptoms, such as the frequent need to urinate or a constant, urgent need to urinate
- Your urine stream may be intermittent or weak
- You may have persistent urinary tract infections

The majority of women have these problems. However, most do not want to talk about them.

Fortunately, recent advances in medicine can solve these problems and change your life for the better.
